FOOTBALL FREESTYLER & TV PRESENTER

Football Freestyler, TV presenter and multiple Guinness World Record holder, Dan Magness is a man of many talents.

Passionate about football, Dan learned his tricks whilst growing up in Guildford, honing his skills until he got to the top of his game. His phenomenal football skills and routines have taken him all over the world, earning him the privilege of being the first person to perform at the new Wembley Stadium.

His unparalleled football freestyle routines have made Dan hugely sought after. He has performed half-time shows for many Premiership football clubs, appeared in commercials with some of the world's biggest names in football, performed at corporate events and is a much requested after dinner speaker. His own TV show, "Football Freestyler" also aired for two seasons.

In 2009, Dan became the first person in the world to keep a ball in the air for 24 hours without dropping it. This amazing feat was improved upon in 2010, taking the record to 26 hours, juggling the ball over 350,000 times. He's also juggled a football around every Premier League ground in London –36 miles in total, and walked from Wembley Stadium in London to Old Trafford in Manchester, keeping a ball up the whole time. Taking 11 days, this gruelling 210 mile journey shows his skill, determination and dedication to the 'beautiful game' and his art.
