Evening Challenge.

The Evening (or Lunchtime!) Spy Challenge runs alongside a meal and is run with each table becoming team, who are competing against the other tables for the coveted Spy Dollars! Challenges and activities are run at each banqueting table, by pooling together the groups knowledge and skills. This is usually held on banqueting rounds of 8-10 participants, but we can be flexible on this to accommodate whatever you'd like.

This event is a great way to create interaction and communication, without disrupting the dinner service. Participants remain seated with their team whilst special agents deploy various activities and challenges to their table. Initially, a locked briefcase is given to each team and they need to crack the code to open the case. Once inside, a number of paper based observational challenges will test the tables knowledge and skills.

In between courses, the tables are invited to take part in further code breaking challenges, as well as a head scratching safe cracking game! All challenges are completed to gain as many Spy Dollars as possible, providing entertainment from the moment guests sit down at the tables, until the meal has finished.

After dessert, all cash and answer sheets are collected and the table/team with the most Spy Dollars at the end of the evening will be crowned 'Spy Challenge Champions', with each member of the team receiving a coveted winner's medal!

Typical running times for this event is from 7.00pm – 9.30pm, but we can be flexible to suit your event.
